Blank 2019.

STORY: A young man (Karan Kapadia) meets with an accident and suffers from amnesia. During his medical examination it is revealed that he's a suicide bomber. That sets off the ATS Chief Diwan (Sunny Deol) his team on a manhunt to figure out the impending terror plans on Mumbai. REVIEW: Precise execution is a must for a high-concept action thriller to deliver the proverbial thrills to the viewer. 'Blank', has a fairly far-fetched idea, where a ticking device is hardwired into a man's chest and linked to his beating heart. Not just that, this outrageous piece of tech is also wirelessly connected to multiple bombs that are part of a well-planned and innovative terror attack. The only saviour is topcop Diwan, who accidentally stumbles into the path of the bionic suicide bomber, who can't really remember if he's a terrorist or not. The film has some decent ideas, even the ones that seem over-the-top are genuinely creative and manage to pique the audience's interest. But the execution of this Hollywood thriller with Hollywood ambitions is far from clinical. In fact, on many occasions 'Blank' becomes a little too daft in the attempt to being clever. The story begins on the edge as Karan Kapadia is strapped and handcuffed, as Diwan and his sniper prepare to shoot the young man in an isolated spot, away from the city. It builds a fair degree of interest for the viewer and the curiosity increases as the narrative jumps back into the past of this purported terrorist. 'Blank' has a complex narrative but not every piece of the puzzle makes sense. There are too many loopholes in the writing and the character development. It also doesn't help that one of the antagonists, Maqsood (Jameel Khan), the chief of the terror organisation, pouts such chaste Urdu, that even scholars of the language would be bamboozled with the barrage of words. At times, a film needs a restrained effort to be effective, but 'Blank' never holds back and at times it tries to do more than what's needed. One aspect where the film doesn't hold back and yet manages to achieve good results are the action sequences. Most fast-paced fights feature newcomer Karan Kapadia and the younger looks a lot more comfortable landing kicks and punches, than he does in scenes of heightened drama. Sunny Deol, as always, lands the heavy punches with consummate ease. Pity that the screenplay doesn't utilise more of his acting abilities. Young actors Ishita Dutta and Karanvir Sharma are mostly wasted in underdeveloped roles. This action movie is helmed by first-time director Behzad Khambata and the inexperience shows in many portions where the filmmaker's choices aren't top-notch. The decision to play an emotional track called Himmat Karja just before and during a critical fight sequence kills the mood completely. And that is the way the film's narrative plays out throughout. The movie has flashes of promise but just as many, if not more, moments of amateur execution. There's also a special track called Ali Ali, featuring Akshay Kumar. Thankfully, it plays during the end credits and doesn't really add to plentiful woes of the film. Blank is a 2019 Indian movie directed by Behzad Khambata starring Sunny Deol, Karan Kapadia, Ishita Dutta and Karanvir Sharma. The feature film is produced by Shrikant Bhasi, Nishant Pitti, Tony D'souza and Vishal Rane VIDEOS USER REVIEWS Blank, a dark movie. Blank, a scary movie. But the subject is realistic. The movie is realistic. Sunny Deol is in his top form. With his loud voice, he makes a mark which remains in our minds forever. The newcomers are good. Thumbs up to all of them!! The film stars Sunny Deol, Karan Kapadia, Karanvir Sharma and Ishita Dutta. It was jointly produced by Shrikant Bhasi, Nishant Pitti, & Pictures, Tony D'Souza, and Vishal Rana. The film follows a terrorist who plans to bomb Mumbai along with his compatriots. After meeting with an accident, he loses memory of his mission, but an investigating officer refuses to take his word for it, and plans to kill him in an encounter. Blank was Khambata's directorial debut, and was also Kapadia's acting debut. The principal photography for the film began in September 2018. The soundtrack was composed by Raghav Sachar, Arko Pravo Mukherjee, and Sonal Pradhaan, with lyrics written by Arko Pravo Mukherjee, Adeip Singh, Kumar and Sonal Pradhaan, and released under the banner Zee Music Company.[11] Track listingNo.TitleLyricsMusicSinger(s)Length1."Warning Nah! The Times of India wrote, "This jaw-dropping trailer is nothing but one ride that will give an ample of adrenaline rush".[15] Similarly, The Indian Express opined, "The crisply cut and edited trailer is high on action, thrill and some heavy dose of dialogues".[16] Shortly before the film's release, Deol joined the Bharatiya Janata Party. Rana maintained that the film was not being released in that time period for any political motive or to gain any publicity, and stated that it was a coincidence.[5] Five days prior to its release, the film was selectively screened at locations across India for test audiences.[17] Kapadia visited one such screening in Delhi to be promoting the film.[18] Blank was theatrically released in India on 3 May 2019. Other than Blank, the only other Hindi release that day was the crime thriller Setters.[19] Reception Critical response Blank received mixed to negative reviews from critics.[20] Devesh Sharma of Filmfare states, "Given its premise, the film had the potential to be an edge-of-the-seat thriller, if only the writing and execution could have been better". He criticised almost all aspects of production, but felt the "only redeeming aspect [was] the action".[21] Writing for The Hindu, Namrata Joshi opines, "Blank eventually doesn't rise above being a stilted "bad Muslim" narrative. It's yet another film that plays on
